

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of claiming obsolescence, especially a claim method owing to production orders below forecast orders. The disclosed method aims at resolving the problem of not being able to process claims of obsolescence in electronic format between enterprises and vendors/suppliers. In the invention, the Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) server
5 manages and controls the inventory system and transmits data by a configure to order (CTO) concept and method to process centralized management of obsolescent materials, to reduce the risk of purchasing materials by enterprises, and increase profit margins of enterprises.